THE SUNNY SOUTH.

SOME THINGS THAT WE SAW, AND THE IMPRESSIONS MADE BY A TRIP IN DIXIE LAND.

After an absence of two weeks we arrived home on the 22nd inst. feeling that Bloomsburg is the most delightful spot on earth and that there is "no place like home." It does one good to go among strange people and visit strange places, thereby acquiring some knowledge of different modes of life, and receiving renewed impressions of the magnitude of this great country.

Every moment of time was spent in sight seeing, and when night came I found myself too much fatigued to do much writing. Besides this, the conveniences for writing were not what they are at my own desk in THE COLUMBIAN office, and hence my former letters were quite meagre in detail.

On our way to Georgia we passed through Delaware, the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina. As the broad fields and fine buildings of Pennsylvania farms disappeared behind us the fertility of the soil and the general appearance of the country gradually changed, growing poorer and poorer, until we entered the state of Georgia. In Virginia, Delaware and Maryland, there are fine plantations, but in the Carolinas the soil is not so good. Corn and cotton are the chief products. At every station there were large quantities of baled cotton. As the crop has been gathered for this year there were no cotton fields in bloom. The contour of the land in places is as level as a western prairie, then rolling, and then covered with scrub pine.

Every railroad station has two waiting rooms, each distinctly labeled on the outside, "Waiting room for white people" and "Waiting room for colored people." On every side the cabins of the colored people are to be seen. They are but one story high, some made of logs, some of plank, and now and then there is one covered with siding. They have no cellars, and are all set up two or three feet from the ground, with piles of wood or stone at each corner. They average in size about 18 by 25 feet, and have no glass windows. The door in front affords some ventilation, and those that have other ventilation get it from square holes in the walls with tight board shutters on hinges. In front of these cabins the whole family gathers to watch the cars pass by, men, women and numerous children, all scantily clad, and yet shouting and laughing and with an air of general contentment with their lot. We saw no garden patches, very few outbuildings where pigs or cows or chickens could be kept at most of these cabins, and were unable to ascertain how they eke out an existence. I asked a gentleman on the train why there were no cellars, and he replied that they were too lazy to dig cellars, and that even if they had them they had nothing to put in them. A colored man who owns a mule and an old truck wagon belongs to the "wealthy" class, while he who possesses a team consisting of a mule and a cow, is a regular nabob.

The towns we passed through are composed of frame buildings, mostly one story, and do not possess the appearance of thrift that is seen in northern towns. On reaching Atlanta, however, we felt more at home. It is like a northern city in many respects, with broad streets well paved, handsome business blocks, fine churches, beautiful residences, and good hotels. The Aragon is called the palace hotel of the south, and compares favorably in all its appointments with first class hotels in our northern cities. The city is supplied with good water, and has electric lights, trolley roads and all modern conveniences, and is acknowledged to be the most progressive city in the south. In one of the large drug stores owned by the Jacobs Pharmacy Co. we found Joseph Furman, son of our townsman C. S. Furman, employed as a clerk. He is a thorough druggist, and while filling a position, he is also taking an occasional look at the Exposition. Besides the people from this section whom I mentioned last week, W. C. Hidlay and D. A. Creasy of Bloomsburg were in attendance. I saw their names registered at the Pennsylvania building, but did not meet them.

There is no difficulty in finding souvenirs of the Exposition in Atlanta. Every fakir in the country is there, and the sidewalks are lined with them. Hotel rates are high at the leading houses, but many private families are taking guests at two dollars a day, and the smaller hotels have put the rate at three dollars a day, with good accommodations. The Exposition grounds are surrounded by temporary buildings for hotels. Persons who reach the city in the day time have no difficulty in finding places to stay, but at night time one may have to hunt awhile if he is not acquainted with the ropes. By applying at the large hotels the clerks will refer you to some other place if they cannot take you in. Many places take lodgers for fifty cents, and you can get your meals where you please.

The Exposition is located about two miles from the center of the city, and is reached by bus lines and trolley cars for five cents, by carriage for 25 cents, and by steam railroad for 10 cents. The trolley line runs out Peachtree street, on which are located the finest residences in the city, and is the better way to go. On this street are the Governor's mansion, and the house used by Gen. Sherman as his headquarters during his occupancy of the city in war days.

The following facts concerning Atlanta are gleaned from the official guide book:

Atlanta is the metropolis of the southeast. Its average altitude is 1050 feet above sea level, and is surrounded by a rich agricultural and mineral region. Thirteen railroads radiate in every direction.

The growth of Atlanta has been marvelous, and her prosperity wonderful, since the fateful days in '64 when Sherman's army left nothing here but ashes and smouldering ruins; everything was gone but hope and energy. From that time she has been carried along on the mighty and irresistible current of human progress. No circumstances nor conditions could have hastened or retarded her. It was intended from the beginning that a great city should rise above these foothills, for before Atlanta was known or dreamt of, the great avenues of stage and wagon traffic between the North and South and East and West, crossed each other here. This crossroads meeting place in time demanded an inn. First known as Terminus for years, in 1843 the name was changed to that of Marthasville, in compliment to the daughter of ex-Governor Wilson Lumpkin. In 1846 the name Atlanta was chosen. When the dark days of '61 and '64 had passed, she sprang into new life and took on more vigorous growth. From that time she has taken sturdy strides, until to-day she stands forth with 110,000 souls in the palm of her hand.

She has sixty miles of streets paved with asphalt, vitrified brick, and granite blocks from Stone Mountain. From her suburban limits, excellent roads lead to the various suburbs and the country beyond.

The city has a natural and an artificial sewerage system which has been pronounced perfect by sanitary engineers. Her principal trunk sewers are large enough to permit the passage of a horse and wagon. The drainage and sewerage system is so arranged that it carries off rapidly and completely the floods resulting from heavy rainfalls peculiar to this section at certain seasons of the year, and these rainfalls, flushing the drains and sewers as they do, assist very materially in maintaining the splendid sanitary condition of the city.

She owns her water supply system, which is sufficient to meet the demands of a population of 500,000, or nearly five times the number of people residing within her limits now. Her water is supplied from the Chattahoochee river, seven miles from the city, and is conducted through pipes by the aid of two pumping stations and an immense reservoir.

She has a perfect electric light system, electric railways, a famous fire department, excellent police regulations, a thorough school system, first class hotels, good libraries, able newspapers, and numerous churches. The weather is never uncomfortably warm, and the mornings and evenings are cool. We left home prepared for warm weather in the south, but found it necessary to have a fire in our room constantly. Among other points of interest are the battlefields, the parks, the theatres, colleges and seminaries, hospitals and monuments. The people are warm hearted, and are giving the visitors to their city a cordial welcome.

I had intended to give a description of the Exposition this week, but have already used as much space as can be spared this subject. The Exposition is a big show, and well worth going to see, and I would advise every body who can spare the time and money to take it in. We will give a bird's eye view of it next week, with a descriptive article. G. E. E.

Bradford County has received proposals for the erection of a new Court House. Fifteen plans were submitted and out of these, six were laid aside from which the selection will be made. It will cost about $150,000.

ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANT.

The work on the above named plant is progressing very rapidly. The foundation (which is immense) for the new engine is completed, and the large stack is in place. It will stand about eighty feet high and four and a half feet in diameter. That portion of the building which was formerly used as a storage room, has been cleaned out, and the new engine and dynamo will be placed in that end of the building. The new boilers will be located west of the present ones, and when the work is completed it is expected to have sufficient power for all purposes.

JUNIOR EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Last Sunday afternoon was the little folk's day at the Methodist Church. About a year ago a Junior Epworth League was organized with about twenty boys and girls, and the event was celebrated by songs, recitations, &c. The important part of the program however, was reserved for the last, when their offering for the new church, amounting to about seventeen dollars, was taken. The amount was large when we take into consideration the fact that it was the result of Self Denial Week. Undoubtedly this amount represented self denials on their part, which their fathers and mothers would not make. The offering was received by the pastor.

ARE TO BE COMMENDED.

Commissioner Swank was called to Wilkes-Barre last week on business connected with his office. It seems that the Commissioners of Luzerne County have been insisting upon collecting taxes from several of the people of this County, whose land lies partly in the above named County. The assessors and tax collectors had been giving them considerable annoyance and the board in this County concluded it was their duty to protect them. The matter was settled in accordance with the desire of this board, and the above named citizens will not be troubled in the future. They are to be commended for this act, as it shows that they are alive to the interests of the taxpayers of this County.

The contract for the construction of the culvert at North Street has been awarded to C. P. Armstrong.

ARRESTED FOR FAST DRIVING.

For some time past the Commissioners have been troubled by certain parties making a race course of the river bridge at Catawissa. As repeated cautions had failed to abate it, it was decided that the interests of the County demanded that the law be enforced. Saturday, Frank J. Miller, who resides in Catawissa township, drove through it at a rapid gate, and upon his return came back in the same manner. He was stopped in the bridge by workmen, who were making repairs, and cautioned, but paying no attention to their advice, he started his horse on a trot. He was arrested Saturday afternoon and taken before J. B. Knittle, Esq., who after hearing the evidence imposed a fine of $10 and costs. The Commissioners do not desire to distress any one, but this practice must stop. The bridge is County property, and in their official capacity they are bound to see that it is properly used. It cost the County many thousand dollars, and the Commissioners will be commended by the tax payers in looking after their interests. They are determined to put a stop to this, both on this bridge, and the one at Bloomsburg, if it is necessary to make an arrest every day. A party has been appointed, whose duty it is to watch these bridges, and any one driving over them at a rapid gait will be prosecuted without respect to person. This thing must stop.

Williamsport Will Protect Herself.

At a public meeting held at Williamsport last week it was decided to prepare legislation for the councils of that city providing for the system of flood protection as prepared by the government and other engineers, and to ask for public subscriptions to the fund. The plan contemplates an expenditure of half a million dollars.

Quail Scarce.

The sportsmen of all the principal cities of this state have decided not to shoot any quail in the state this fall, owing to the scarcity of the birds, and believing that what there are should be left undisturbed as seed for another season. If all true sportsmen in Pennsylvania would follow this example, it would not be long until birds would be plenty again.

Never anything known like it here before.

NEW VARIETIES OF APPLES.

Switzer is a very handsome German apple that begins to ripen about the 1st of August. The fruit, which is of medium size, is nearly white, with a beautiful blush. It is very good in flavor and good in quality either for dessert or for culinary use. The tree is productive.

Williams's Favorite is a dessert fruit that should be more widely known. Its symmetrical form and deep red color make it an attractive apple in market. It is also desirable for home use, as it is good in flavor and quality. The tree makes moderate growth and is a good bearer.

Among the October apples desirable for culinary use may be mentioned Cox's Pomona. It is an old variety of English origin. The fruit is large, highly colored with crimson on a clear, very pale yellow ground, making it an attractive market fruit. The flesh is white, crisp, subacid. It cooks evenly and ranks good in quality.

Among the comparatively new or little known varieties of considerable merit is the Sharp. The fruit resembles Maiden Blush somewhat in shape and color, and is better for dessert use than that variety. Its flesh is nearly white, fine-grained, tender, moderately juicy, nearly sweet, of mild pleasant flavor and very good quality; season, October. The tree has fruited here but three years, but it appears to be a good bearer.

One of the handsomest late August and early September apples in the station collection is the Stump, which is excellent for market or home use. It begins to ripen soon after Chenango Strawberry, which it resembles in shape. The tree is upright and productive. The fruit, borne on short spurs close to the limbs, is pale yellow, beautifully striped and shaded with red. Flesh firm, crisp, tender, subacid, mild in flavor.

The red Beitigheimer apple has fruited here several years. While it has valuable qualities for culinary and market purposes, its flesh is rather coarse, and it would not be called a good dessert fruit except by those who like a brisk subacid flavor. On account of its symmetrical form, large size and handsome color no apple in the station collection attracts more attention than this at fairs and exhibitions. Under good cultivation it is a free grower and a regular and abundant bearer. The fruit is very large, and quite apt to drop before it is well colored. This fault is more serious with the Red Beitigheimer than with Wealthy, Alexander or Gravenstein, and probably will prevent its being planted extensively in commercial orchards.

Feed for Pigs.

Cows and hogs go well together. Following after the cattle and consuming the skimmilk produces an animal well adapted for breeding purposes. The tendency of corn-fed hogs is toward a fineness of bone and weakness of the muscular system. Milk and clover counteract this bad effect. By using the proper foods two litters a year can be had from each sow. Wean the pigs when six to eight weeks old, and feed middlings or cornmeal and skimmilk. Many farmers do not think it is profitable to raise two litters a year, but if the pigs are fed milk in winter it is good practice. Of course, a dry, warm stable is necessary to get best results.

While milk is the best single food for hogs, I prefer to use it with other feed. Why favorable results are obtained I cannot say, unless it be that ordinary hog feed is too concentrated, and milk acting as a diluent increases its value. I have always fed my milk after it has clabbered, although other good feeders use it sweet. In summer it will curdle in thirty-eight to forty hours. In winter add warm water or place it near the stove. Clabbered milk if fed alone and too liberally forms lumps. This may be prevented by stirring thoroughly before feeding, or pouring from one vessel to another. The safest and most profitable method is to mix the milk with an equal quantity of middlings or cornmeal. This will do away with the danger from lumps. If the pigs are not being crowded for fattening add some cut clover hay.

Hogs to be raised profitably must be ready for butchering at eight or ten months. If the pigs have a good pasture after being weaned, and are kept in good condition by giving skimmilk and mill feed, a weight of 250 to 300 pounds can easily be obtained at the above-mentioned age. With young animals a bushel of corn will ordinarily produce an increase of eight to twelve pounds of pork. Even better results will be obtained if skimmilk is fed at the beginning of the fattening period, and the meat will have a more delicate flavor. Among the wealthier classes there are many who are willing to pay an extra cent a pound for pork produced under the proper conditions and put up in an attractive manner. It pays to cater to this demand.—A. Selle.

For Dehorning.

The best chemical dehorner is caustic potash, to be had in sticks for a few cents at any druggist's. When the calf is a few days old clip off the hair over the horn button, moisten one end of the caustic (hold the other end wrapped in paper) and rub it on the button until the skin is very red and highly inflamed. When the scab comes off, if the least trace of the horn nut remains repeat the application. Put the caustic only on the nut or button, as it burns intensely.

Division of the Sexes.

One of the most remarkable churches is to be found at Freudenthal, in the Black Forest. It is built on such a plan that the men are unable to see the women, and vice versa, for it is composed of two wings, which meet at an angle where the pulpit stands. The right wing is allotted to men and the left one to the women of the congregation.—Schwabischer Merkur.

Southdowns for Choice Muttons.

The special points in which the Southdown breed surpasses every other are as follows: A good and quick return for food consumed and the conversion of the same into the highest-priced product. The fact that the flesh of the Southdown is the finest grained and the best flavored accounts for the great demand for it.

THE "WILD MAN."

This has been a pretty good season for wild men. Probably the Winsted, Conn., specimen was the best known.

The North Berwick, Me., wild man wasn't very wild. He now goes to the post-office for his mail.

John Schmidt, of Bridgeton, was a wild man last spring, but was put in jail, and after three months liked it so well that he cried and didn't want to go back to his beechnuts and hollow trees.

Another specimen was Dan Smith, colored, caught recently near Grosse Teche, La. He escaped from slavery thirty-five years ago and lived in the woods, naked and without the power of speech, all that time.

A ginsing digger in Caton, N. Y., played "wild man" so well that folks invested him in thought and speech with eight feet of stature, a dozen knives and guns, and teeth like tombstones. Then he explained the joke.

NOTICE.

Whereas, at a Court of Common Pleas of Columbia county, being September term, 1895, a petition was presented by J. M. Clark, assignee of William Neal for benefit of creditors, and I. W. McKelvy, executor of Wm. McKelvy, dec'd., representing that said Wm. Neal and Wm. McKelvy were owners in fee of certain land in Bloomsburg, Pa., known as the McClure farm, bounded south by Susquehanna river, east by lands of estate of D. J. Waller, north by land of estate of Vastine Boone and others, and west by lands of estate of Douglas Hughes. That an unsatisfied mortgage appears of record upon said farm given February 4, 1823, by Josiah McClure to one Andrew Clark to secure the just sum of eighteen hundred, eleven dollars and fifty cents. AN INTERESTING LETTER.

MACCLENNY, BAKER CO., FLA.
November 22, 1895.

ED. COLUMBIAN:—

While reading the COLUMBIAN today, I thought how nice it was to read a good home paper when in a strange place, and far from home and friends, and I felt like writing to the Editor telling him how much I appreciate the COLUMBIAN. It is as good as a dozen letters from "Old Columbia." Florida is indeed the "Land of Flowers." The woods are full of them. The yards are brightened by the lovely roses aud lilies. The weather is delightful, just cool enough to be nice.

We had several days rain last week, but it cleared off warm in spite of the weather prophets predictions for cold. The cotton is nearly all gathered, cotton sells at five cents per pound before it is ginned. They raise a fine quality of cotton here, the long staple. It takes a long time for the crop to mature, it is nearly eight months from the planting until it is all gathered. Watermelons are raised in great numbers, and after the watermelon season is over the sugar-cane comes in. They can raise fine cane here. I saw some over ten feet high and twenty-two joints in one cane. We have sugar boilings and all the syrup we want to eat. Large quantities of peanuts are raised some fatten their hogs on them.

Sweet potatoes are plenty and sell for from twenty-five to forty cents per bushel. Irish potatoes are raised too, but they do not turn out very well and are apt to rot. They are hard to keep. They sell for from one dollar to one dollar and twenty cents per bushel.

They raise great quantities of cow peas, also beans. Cabbage, radishes, turnips and tomatoes can be raised easily. The first three are being planted now. Rye and oats can be grown here but not enough to supply the home market. Corn does middling well. The finest fruits can be raised, pears, peaches, plums, grapes, figs, pomegranates, persimmons, berries, lemons and oranges, and blackberries and huckleberries also. Strawberries are ripe now. Near Lawtey in Bradford Co., about twenty miles from here they raise them to ship. Here they raise enough for the home market. Oranges are not very plenty this season, but they are budding the Satsuma orange on the trees that were frozen down last winter. They are a hardier variety than the other.

We are about four miles from the Georgia line and twenty miles from the Okefinoke Swamp.

MacClenny has about four hundred inhabitants. One Temperance hotel, six Churches and about thirteen stores and other places of business. Baker Co. is said to be the healthiest county in the state. No ague or chills and fever, and the salt (also the pineries) air sometimes from the Ocean, other times from the Gulf, make it a good resort for people suffering from the pulmonary diseases.

I am teaching school now, as my letter is already lengthy I will tell you about the schools some other time.

Yours Respectfully,
LIZZIE KLINE.

Chicago a Romantic Place.

"Won't you always tuck my handkerchiefs in my pocket for me?" said Nathan Ladon, of Menominee, Wis., as he looked down at pretty Mary Frank, manager of Siegel, Cooper & Co's handkerchief counter, in Chicago, who was coyly poking a bit of blue bordered linen which he had just purchased into the breast pocket of his coat.

"Why, I should be glad to sell you handkerchiefs at any time," said Miss Frank, blushing furiously and pretending not to understand.

"No; that isn't the idea," responded Mr. Ladon. "I want to buy your handkerchiefs all the rest of your life. May I?"

"Well, I—I guess you may," replied Mary, continuing to bush.

That settled it. Miss Frank took off her apron, and Mr. Ladon paid for his handkerchiefs. Mary went upstairs and told the employers she would have to leave, for she had "received a better offer."

Mr. Ladon, who is a wealthy dry goods merchant of Menominee, impatiently awaited her appearance, and on her return the couple at once started for the office of the County Clerk, where they were married.

A GOOD INDICATION.

Medical practitioners of prominence are prescribing for the cure of diseases springing from derangements of the digestive organs, Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy This professional endorsement is justified by the fact that no other preparation has been found so efficacious in that class of disorders even in the most advanced and severe cases. It has cured gravel in the kidneys, stone in the bladder and inflammation of the kidneys, where all other medicines had failed. All druggists sell it. 2t.

A Unique Pen.

Henry Pearson, a young man who occupies the position of bookkeeper for a grocery establishment in St. Paul, uses perhaps the most novel pen in existance. Pearson has allowed the nail of his middle finger to grow to the length of a full inch, and this he has whittled down till it has exactly the appearance of an old fashioned quill pen.

Pearson says his pen has many advantages over any other which he ever used, the chief of these being that it was always "at hand." A neat silver ferrule, or rather an elongated thimble, protects the pen when not in use, and Pearson says it writes for an incredible time without having to be trimmed or repaired.—Philadelphia Times.

GRAVES TOO SHALLOW.

They Must Be Six Feet Deep in Cities and Four Feet in the Country.

The state board of health, at its meeting in Harrisburg on Friday, adopted a resolution requiring graves for human beings to be at least six feet deep in populous and four feet in rural districts. The board learned that bodies were buried under a foot of earth in Pittsburg cemeteries.

The responsibility of tanneries in the matter of creating nuisances and the danger to human life arising from infectious matter, deaths having resulted from bites of flies which he had fed upon putrid matter from tanneries at Blossburg, will be investigated.

Dr. Lee, the secretary, in his report says:

"Diphtheria continues to be the most serious scourge from which our people now suffer, the board having been called upon for advice or executive action in thirty-six outbreaks. The number of cases in the city of Philadelphia has been 3,423, with 1,247 deaths, as compared with 3,159 and 1,047 deaths in the year previous, and this notwithstanding the employment of the anti-diphtheretic serum by a very considerable proportion of physicians. Up to the present time statistics appear strongly confirmatory of the value of this agent. Until, however, we can educate our masses into the same wholesome belief in and dread of the infectiousness of this disease that they now entertain with regard to smallpox, we must expect to see it reap a large harvest."

The body must be well nourished now, to prevent sickness. If your appetite is poor take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

On a Long Tramp.

Joe, the Pinman, his wife and dog, are on their way to San Francisco. Joe hopes to win a $5,000 wager by walking from Boston to San Francisco and back. The tramp began October 1st, but no time is given for the return. He is under contract to sell 2,000,000 papers of pins and 3,000,000 lead pencils, for which if successful in his trip and sales he will receive an additional $14,000 on his return. He is allowed $2 per day out of his sales for expenses, the rest of which he returns to Boston. If he is successful in accomplishing the trip, he expects to clear at least $25,000, while if he fails he looses all. His wife is about 30 and will accompany him all the way.

The Court's First Decision.

The Superior Court handed down its first decision last Monday, the opinion of the court being delivered by Judge Wickham. The court reverses the finding of common pleas court No. 3 of Philadelphia in the suit brought by the Benevolent Order of Active Workers against John S. Smith. The amount involved in the suit is very small, yet the principle is of great importance and probably has a bearing upon a number of other cases.

The COLUMBIAN is sent gratis to all ministers in the county, and in return for this favor all we ask of the ministers is to furnish us with the of any deaths where they are called upon to officiate.

You must do something. In the earlier stages of Consumption, and in all the conditions that lead to it, Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a certain remedy. This scrofulous affection of the lungs, like every other form of Scrofula, can be cured by it. A Minister's Experience With Heart Disease.

Rev. L. W. Showers, Elderton, Pa.: "For many years my greatest enemy has been organic heart disease. From uneasiness about the heart, with palpitation, it had developed into thumping, fluttering, and choking sensations. Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gave instant relief. A few bottles have rid me of almost every symptom of heart disease. It is a wonder-worker." Sold by Wm. S. Rishton. 6-15-1y.

LUZERNE'S RECORD.

Twenty-One Murders Confined in Jail at Wilkes-barre—Five Convicted.

There are now confined in the Luzerne county prison twenty one murderers. Four have been convicted of murder in the first degree, and are now awaiting sentence, while one, William Penn Bowman, aged nineteen years, has been sentenced to death and is awaiting execution. Never before in the history of the county has so many murderers been confined in her prison at one time.

The citizens of Columbia County after reading the above article, have reason to be thankful that they live in a County where crimes is practically unknown.

The National Senate.

When Congress convenes in December the Senate will be made up as follows: Republicans, 42; Democrats, 37; Populists, 8. There will be one vacancy—in Deleware. To this Dupont will probably be admitted giving the Republicans 43. The two Senators to be elected in Utah will give them 45, or just one-half the complete Senate of 90 members. As the Vice-President, the presiding officer, is a Democrat, the Republicans cannot control the Senate without the vote of a Populist or Silverite. For all party purposes except free coinage Stewart and Jones, of Nevada, are Republicans, and can undoubtedly be depended on to vote on that side. Irby and Tillmen, classified as Populists, are Democrats on some questions, but their votes would not give the Democrats control.

The Democratic loss of two and probably three Senators in the elections on Tuesday—in Ohio, Maryland and Kentucky—will assure the Republicans control on the 4th of March, 1897.

A Wise Reproof.

An exchange advises its readers, in view of near approach of winter, not to ship a big box of clothing and provisions a thousand miles away when there is a little boy freezing just around the corner, probably within a few feet of you. It is all right to send help away but take care of the destitute at your own door before you go any further away.

To Determine the Speed.

A person on a train will notice, if listening closely, a click as each rail is passed. If you take out your watch and count the number of clicks in 20 seconds you will have the number of miles at which the train is going an hour. This is always true as the rails are of uniform length. It is a system that is used by railroad men when no register is at hand.

HOW MANY WOMEN DO YOU KNOW

Who Can Say They Are Thoroughly Well? How They Can Be Strong.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

I don't feel very well; I am so tired all the time; I don't know what is the matter with me.

You hear these words every day. As often as you meet your friends, just so often are the words repeated. More than likely you speak the same pregnant words yourself, and there is no doubt but that you do feel far from well most of the time. There is a cause, And—There is a remedy for all that is covered by those words so constantly spoken by women.

Lydia E. Pinkham discovered the source of nearly all the suffering endured by the sex.

"Women's Complaints,"—these two words are full of more misery to women than any two words that can be found in the language of the world.

Sudden fainting, depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or to do anything, backache, "bearing down," and kindred symptoms of serious disturbance seldom imagined by your family physician, and reluctantly mentioned by you.

The remedy is found; the same noble woman who discovered the cause of all your misery also worked out the remedy. All druggists have it.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the greatest blessing that ever came into the lives of suffering women.

COURT HOUSE JACK DEAD.

Every one who for the past five years has transacted business at the Court House, has noticed a large dog whom every one called "Jack" roaming, apparently aimlessly around the corridors and rooms. His history is known to nearly every one. When the addition was built to the Court House, the contract was awarded to Mathias Shaffer, who resided a short distance from this place, and as the work progressed, "Jack," who was owned by Mr. Shaffer, accompanied him to and from his work. During the progress of the work, Mr. Shaffer died, but Jack still continued making his trips, and would go from office to office seeking his master. As years went by, he became too old to make the daily journey, and adopted D. R. Coffman, the janitor, as his master, who has been caring for his wants ever since. He had not however given up his search for Mr. Shaffer, but kept it up until last Monday, when he died. His body was carefully buried by Mr. Coffman, who had become greatly attached to the dog, as had indeed every one who knew his faithfulness to his former master.

John Miller, of Venango county, is 71 years of age. He had a young wife. She wanted a younger man, and Captain John Lyter, a G. A. R. man, made love to her and negotiated with the old man for her purchase, says the Punxsutawney Spirit. The following agreement was therefore drawn up between them: "I, the undersigned, John Miller, party of the first part, do hereby agree with John Lyter, party of the second part, to give up to the party of the second part one Martha, my wife, the consideration to be as follows: John Lyter is to pay me in cash $20, also a good suit of clothes, valued at $25, a jug of the best whiskey, two hound pups and fishing tackle worth $26."

All That's Claimed

"I had a poor appetite, that tired feeling and was run down, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has done me a great deal of good. I have a better appetite and do not feel tired. I can recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as an excellent spring or fall medicine to keep the blood in order. Myself and three daughters have taken over six bottles, and it has done us much good. We do not now have to call upon a doctor, as formerly, in the spring time, and I can say that Hood's Sarsaparilla is all that is claimed for it. I most heartily recommend it, and shall always keep it in my house." ALBERT KINSEY, Auburn, Pa.

The newest fabric for house wrappers, tea gowns and children's dresses is the beautiful soft fleece Genevse Cloth, it is a correct copy of the Persian silk designs, now so much in vogue; its cheapness should make it a desirable fabric, saying nothing of its rich prettiness; write for sample or order direct, stating if light or dark effects are required; we introduce it at 15c. the yard.

As there are many things needed for Christmas to which we cannot give space, we would be pleased to have you write us for any information desired. Our mail order clerks will cheerfully answer all correspondence.

THANKSGIVING.

Bloomsburg, November 26, 1895.

Another year has fled, and we are on the verge of another cold winter; and as the ladies of the Union Benevolent Society find themselves entirely without funds with which to meet the demands that will without a doubt be made upon them in the near future, and as the society has for the last fifteen years depended almost entirely upon the Thanksgiving offering of the good people of Bloomsburg for funds to meet these demands, we, the officers of this society, request that a collection be taken up on Thanksgiving day for that purpose.

We believe it is understood that this contribution is not for the relief of the poor in general, or for all and any who may consider themselves in need of help, but for the relief of cases of actual suffering, to provide delicacies and nourishing food, and necessary medicine, and a change of bed or body linen for the sick who have not the means to procure such comforts for themselves.

It may not be generally known, but the ladies of this society very well know that every winter (and often in summer) they are called upon to provide for just such cases. Let us mention one case which will serve to show you what the money is used for. This case was reported to the president of the society by a kind-hearted physician of town.

A woman was found in bed in the month of February, with an infant, three days old. The only nurse and housekeeper was a little girl eleven years of age. Three other half-clad children were crying on the floor. The only under-clothing the woman owned she had on. The only sheet (one) in the house was on the bed. Very worn and thin it was. The only food to be found was buckwheat cakes and molasses and a few potatoes—not a very tempting bill of fare for a sick woman. The husband and father had injured his hand and was unable to work; and as he depended upon his daily toil to support his family, when his work stopped there was no income. He was out gathering coal along the railroad with his well left hand, to keep the one fire going.

We could give you many more, but this will suffice. It is for such and kindred cases that the money given us on Thanksgiving day is to be used. For the last twelve years this offering has averaged just ($26.69) twenty-six dollars sixty-nine cents. May we not hope for at least as much this year? Let every one who attends service on that day go prepared to give as bountifully as he has received from the Giver of all good. While we do not at this writing know of any such necessitous cases, yet if we do not have them before the holidays are over, it will be the first time since the society was organized, and we wish to be ready. Our fund was exhausted last year before the first of April.

MRS. MARY L. NEAL,

Trinity Reformed Church Notes.

During the month of December the pastor, Rev. C. H. Brandt, will preach illustrated sermons every Sunday evening, on the following subjects in the order indicated:

Dec. 1st, The Young Ruler.
" 8th, The Nobleman's Son.
" 15th, The Good Samaritan.
" 22d, The Advent of Christ.

Illustrated sermons are something entirely new for Bloomsburg, and everybody should endeavor to hear these. They have been used with great success in our large cities, and there is no reason why they should not do much good in Bloomsburg. Each division of the sermon will be represented by a large painting, so that you may both see and hear the truths of the gospel.

The C. E. Society has put book-racks into the church and a hymn book into each seat; and now all who attend this church can engage in every part of the service. You are cordially invited, and a warm welcome will be given you at all times.

The Borough of Benton is agitating the question of better fire protection. The only way to get it, Bro. Smith, is to keep on agitating. Brother Randall of the Catawissa News Item can give you a few pointers on agitation. He agitated, and agitated, until he got electric light.

WE ARE NOT ASHAMED TO ADMIT IT.

We are not in league with the weather bureau or cold days would have been seen long ago. But we can't wait. Good merchandising says it isn't wise to hold goods over; rather sell now than carry over, take less and you make the money. Where do we come out? Well, never mind, we will look out for ourselves.

COATS AND CAPES.

Our business has never been better in this department than this year. Why? Because our stock was never larger or better assorted, and the prices lowest. You may have seen others advertise immense reductions in coats. We have not as yet, but come and see how interesting we can make it for you. Come before our sizes are all broken and we will show you quality and prices that you can not help but see the bargains.

BLACK DRESS GOODS

are apparently the same everywhere. They are not. Ten cents a yard difference in price may cover a multitude of sins, of which you are only made aware when the cheap black dress turns rusty and its quality is no more. We have studied the black dress goods questions, and experience tells us that seeking for quality will pay for it. We have BLACK GOODS of quality and you are not asked to pay a single penny more than is right.

STONGE CREPON.

What is it? The best interlining that is on the market anywhere. Superior to fibre chamois, because if you don't want it so stiff you can stretch it. Will hold its stiffening longer and is cheaper. Why pay 35c. the yard when you can buy something better for 25c. the yard. Heavy and light weight in black, drab and cream.

GLOVES AND MITTENS.

We made a purchase sometime ago of gloves that will astonish you when you see the quality. Same as we sold last year for 25c, but now we offer you the same cashmere glove at 15c. the pair. Mittens, best black, at 12½c the pair; used to be 25c. Just half.

BUREAU SETS.

Our window is full of bureau sets of all kinds. Doilies and stamped linens of all descriptions. Our lace emb. sets are extremely pretty and cheap. $1.25, $1.75, $2.00.

Stamped pillow shams at 25 and 50c. the pair.

DISHES AND LAMPS.

Another original crate of decorated dinner sets just unpacked and shown for the first Monday. Best English semi-porcelain; pretty and neat decoration. Any price set you want and any style. All warranted not to craze. We show a line of lamps that cannot be compared with in town. Any price you want.

GROCERIES.

All the finest line of staple and fancy groceries. Seeded raisins—something new. Dried fruits of all kinds and finest canned goods on the market.

PURSEL & HARMAN,

BLOOMSBURG, PENN'A.

Startling Figures.

The National Reform Association, with headquarters in Philadelphia, has brought to the notice of our community in the meetings held in the last few days in the different churches in town some amazing facts. We give a few of them. Dr. Stevenson in his address at the Lutheran church last evening said that the different states of our Union had 25 different causes for divorce and, as a result, in the 20 years from 1867 to 1886 there were granted in this country alone 328,716 divorces. 60 times as many as in Great Brittain for the same time. The divorce laws vary in degree from South Carolina, which goes even beyond the Word of God, and grants no divorce for any cause, to the Dakotas which grants devorce for almost any cause after a residence of three months.

But there are hopeful signs of improvement. 27 of the states have appointed commissioners who met together in Detroit last Summer to draft a National divorce law and by agitation we may hope for better things bye and bye. This has has been accomplished by the National Reform Association under whose influences the meetings have been held here this week. The last of the series was held in the Presbyterian and Reformed churches Wednesday evening. Dr. Stevenson speaking in the former on "Our Educational System Imperiled," and Prof. Dill in the latter on "The Saloon a Nuisance."

Robbins and Peacock, recently shipped an order for the Paul E. Wirt fountain pen to John Wanamaker at Philadelphia. The quality of the pens were, as they all are, the very best, and they were most handsomely finished with solid silver and gold mounting. The chasing on the cases was exquisite. It was the handsomest lot of pens we ever gazed upon and undoubtedly will greatly please the purchaser. They also shipped orders to London, Tasmania, Australia, Germany and India. It is meeting all the requirements of a perfect fountain pen.

CLOTHING ON FIRE.

Mrs. John Welliver who resides at the corner of Main and Leonard Street narrowly escaped death from flames last Thursday. She was assisting with the butchering, and a spark flew from the fire under the kettle igniting her dress. In less time than it takes to write it, the entire back of her dress was in flames. Fortunately however, her husband was present, who ran to her aid, and successfully smothered it before she was severely injured. As it was, she was considerably burned and Mr. Welliver's hands and arms were blistered.

WASHINGTON.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22th, 1895.

Not another bond will be issued by the admintstration, until the republican Congress has an opportunity to extricate the Treasury from the embarrassment into which it was forced by the republican legislation. This can be accepted as absolutely authentic, even should the demand for gold become much greater than it has been for the last few days. It may not be true that the republicans are trying to force another bond issue before Congress meets, but it is true that they would be glad to see one—a big one—, as it would at the same time relieve them of the responsibility of providing for the needs of the Treasury, and furnish them with a new peg upon which to hang fresh abuse of the administration. It is not a subject for smiles, but it would not be strange if President Cleveland indulges in a few grim smiles as he pens that portion of his message to Congress, calling attention to the needs of the Treasury. If such language was permissible in so dignified a document as a President's message, he might be imagined as writing: "Your party put the Treasury in a hole; now the country expects you to at least lend a helping hand towards pulling it out."

It is not a pleasant thing for a democrat to write nor for democrats to read, but as nothing is ever gained by dodging the truth it must be said that the spirit of concession, which it was expected would exist among prominent members of the party at the begining of Congress, is as yet conspicuous by its absence. "Ephraim is wedded to his idols," and, unless the rank and file of the party shall take the bit between their teeth and get together regardless of leaders, there is little prospect of a united democracy in the next Presidential campaign and nothing but a united democracy can even have a fighting chance to win. Perhaps some of those who are trying to make harmony impossible, will on sober second thought change their tactics.

Mr. Frederick C. Waite, of the Agricultural department, read a paper before a meeting of the National Statistical Association, held in Washington this week, which contained some startling figures in the rapid growth of the stay-at-home vote in this country. According to those figures, the stay-at-home in the State of Pennsylvania, at the Presidential election of 1888, was only 70,000, while this year it was 610,000; in New York it was 75,000 in '88, 185,000 in '92, 425,000 in '94, and 510,000 this year; in Kentucky it was 55,000 in '88, and 100,000 this year; in Massechussetts it was 80,000 in '88, 100,000 in '92, and 180,000 this year, and in Ohio it was 40,000 in '88, 115,000 in '92, and 180,000 this year.

Hon. Carrol D. Wright, U. S. Commissioner of Labor, said in the course of a lecture on "The industrial development of the New South," at Columbian University: "We will have to be content to keep the negro with us, and we should try to have the best negro possible. This can only be accomplished by education. The whole negro question must be considered on the industrial line. When educated, the negroes will be inclined to enter into industries."

Secretary Morton has written the following letter which explains itself: "I hasten to respond to your letter of inquiry inclosing newspaper clipping relative to the abuse of the franking privilege. No one who knows the Hon. Tom. L. Johnson will for a moment believe him capable premediated misuse of the franking privilege. He is a gentleman of the highest personal integrity, and his public career precludes the possibility of his knowingly doing a wrong thing with public documents or franks. How the bookseller secured the frank of Mr. Johnson, I am unable to state, but I am confident that Mr. Johnson himself never authorized any one except his private secretary or clerk to use the said frank. It is true that the book with the frank was bought by an employee of this department at a second-hand book store in this city, but the purchase was made for the particular purpose of showing that the promiscuous and gratuitous distribution of books at the public expense is a fraud upon the Treasury, upon the department which prints the documents and upon the Post Office Department which carries them. The particular person whose frank was placed upon the paid-for public document was a matter of no consequence or significance, except as an illustration of how the franking privilege may be abused if those who have them are permitted to grant powers of attorney for their use."

It seems as though every republican member of the House who arrives, brings a different opinion as to what the republicans ought to do at the session of Congress about to open. All of which shows that the term "wild horses," which Mr. Harrisson used to describe the democratic House of the last Congress, is entirely too mild for the menagerie which Mr. Reed is expected to control with one hand, while he uses the other to push his Presidential boom.

"UNCLE REMUS—AND BRIER RABBIT."

"Uncle Remus," in Joel Chandler Harris' charming book of negro folk lore, tells the children of how "Brier Rabbit," being hard pressed by hungry "Brier Fox," escaped by climbing a tree. One of the children objected, exclaiming "Why! Uncle Remus, a rabbit can't climb a tree," to which "Uncle Remus" replied, "Shuh honey, dat rabbit was so hard pressed he des 'bleeged to climb a tree!"

Alike "Brier Fox," the Seaboard Air Line, with its handsome and speedy "Atlanta Special" vestibuled limited train, operated solid between Washington and Atlanta, is pressing its competitors so hard that one of them, at least, is attempting to "climb a tree" and announces to the public that it is "the only line entering the Exposition grounds," while the fact is that all of its through passengers are landed in the Union Station—the station used jointly with the Seaboard Air Line and other lines entering Atlanta, and must transfer to the street cars or to another train for the Exposition grounds, paying the regular fares to and from the grounds, just as do passengers reaching Atlanta over the "Seaboad Air Line."

Millions For Soldiers' Orphans.

The Cost of Conducting Schools for These Children Over $10,000,000.

The annual report of the soldiers' orphan school commission for the fiscal year ended May 31, 1895, has just been issued. The total number of children in the schools under the control of the commission at the date of the report was 852, as against 714 a year ago. There were eighty-nine discharges during the year and four deaths. There have been received under the act of 1893 1,018 applications for admission, of which thirty-nine were rejected, and orders issued for the admission of 693. Thirty of these were subsequently cancelled and 665 admissions made.

There are still on file in the office of the commission 284 of such applications, which the commission has been unable to finally act upon because of the lack of room in the schools. As fast as vacancies may occur these will be taken up and cared for. The rate per capita for education and maintenance during the year has been $127.80 and there was returned to the state $5,777.26. The aggregate number of admissions at these schools since the commencement has been 15,499, out of a total number of applications of 16,594, and with a total expense of $10,218,994.12.

The schools still under the care of the commission are, Chester Springs, in which there were on June 1, 236 scholars; Harford, in which there will be 141; Uniontown, with 234, and the Industrial school at Scotland, five miles north of Chambersburg, the population of which is 240.

We all know that any tired muscle can be restored by rest. Your stomach is a muscle. Dyspepsia is its manner of saying "I am tired. Give me rest." To rest the stomach you must do its work outside of the body.

This is the shaker method of curing indigestion, and its success is best attested by the fact that these people are practically free from what is without doubt the most prevalent of all diseases. The Shaker Digestive Cordial not only contains digested food which is promptly absorbed without taxing the tired digestive organs, but it is likewise an aid to the digestion of other foods in the stomach. A 10 cent trial bottle will convince you of its merit, and these you can obtain through all druggists.

Laxol is the best medicine for children. Doctors recommend it in place of Castor Oil.

A Plan For Williamsport.

A Propositinn to Build Guard Banks Thirty-Three Feet High.

The plan of John A. Fulton, of Johnstown, for preventing the destructive overflows of the Susquehanna at Williamsport is endorsed by the State Board of Health, which will call the next sanitary convention at Williamsport to arouse interest in the project. The plan proposed is the raising of the banks of the river to the high water mark, thirty-three feet, by changing the railroad tracks and removing obstructions in the bed of the stream. Bridges would have to be raised and new embankments made. The estimated cost, exclusive of the expense of the railroad changes, is $550,000. The Board is particularly interested in protecting the water supplies of the State, and legislation will be urged at the next session of the Legislature.

An Easy Way Out of It.

"Well, Bill, you know I'm going to be married next week?"

"So I hear. Let me congratulate you, old man."

"That's all right. Now, what I want is a litt'e advice."

"What is it?"

"You see, you've been married quite awhile and I want to know what to call my mother-in-law."

Don't call her. Just keep right on bluffing."

"You know what I mean. I have to address my conversation to her sometimes and attract her attention.

I don't know her very well and maybe she wouldn't like to have me call her 'mother' and I sort of hate to call her 'Mrs. De——.' How'd you work it?"

"Oh, easy enough. Let me see. The first year I called her 'Say,' principally, but after that I got along all right. Things sort of shaped themselves."

"What did you call her after that?"

"Grandmother."

Lippincott's Magazine For December, 1895.

The complete novel in the December issue of Lippincott's is the "Old Silver Trail," by Mary E. Stickney. It deals with Colorado mining life, with strikes, plots, and various underground proceedings, as well as with scenery and mountain breezes. The hero loves his enemy's daughter, and his pluck and manliness triumph over many obstacles.

The scene of "Bennett's Partner," by James Knapp Reeve, is in a wild and lonesome part of the great West, which lends itself naturally to exciting adventures. Harry Stillwell Edwards, in a striking tale, shows "Where the Clues Met," which was in Georgia. "Three Fates," as outlined by Virna Woods, are varying fortunes which would, or might, have befallen the California heroine, according to which of three suitors she married. "The End of Captain Ferguson," by Beulah Marie Dix, is a brief but vivid sketch, in the modern heroic manner, from old wars in Germany.

"English Mediæval Life" is pleasantly described by Alvan F. Sanborn, and "Athletic Sports of Ancient Days," apropos of the coming revival of the Olympic Games at Athens, by Thomas James de la Hunt. Lyman Horace Weeks gives an account of "Japanese Sword-Lore." As a pendant to these foreign topics, William Cecil Elam tells of "Gunning for Gobblers" in Virginia, and Lawrence Irwell of "Orchids," now so much cultivated among us. Calvin Dill Wilson enumerates the various kinds of "Meats" eaten in all parts of the earth.

"Shrived," by Margaret Gilman George, is an unusually successful revival of the old ballad style, handling a delicate subject with vigor and feeling. The other poems of this number are by Elizabth Harman, Alice I. Eaton, and Carrie Blake Morgan.

Secretary of Agriculture Edge says one of the chief difficulties he finds in holding a farmers' institute for the first time in a locality is the prevalent belief that it is a scheme out of which somebody wants to make money. "The farmers invariably imagine somebody has something to sell," said Mr. Edge yesterday, "and the result is that they don't take to the institute at first. They imagine it is a money making scheme." Secretary Edge tells a story illustrating this fact. He and Mr. Gabriel Hiester, who resides near this city, attended an institute in one of the northeastern counties. It was Mr. Edge's intention to talk about fertilizers and he carried a circular descriptive of that article. Mr. Hiester was to discuss pruning, and that he might give a practical demonstration of his suggestions he took with him a large branch of a tree. As the two passed up the aisle, the assembled horny handed sons of the soil eyed them suspiciously, and their suspicions settled into a certainty when they saw Mr. Edge's circular and Mr. Hiester's branch. "Dang it," said one disguested farmer to his neighbor in a whisper loud enough to be heard a square. "Dang it, I told you they want ter make money. That big one there, he's sellin' fertilizers and the little fellow he sellin' trees."

Lots of Life in Them Yet.

People whose forty-fifth birthday is behind them fancy that their power to resist disease is lessened because a cough sticks to them a few days. They change their ideas when they have tried the Pineola Balsam, for it goes right to the spot and makes the irritated throat well. The resinous substances in the pine and other trees will stop a cough every time if combined as they are in Ely's Pineola Balsam, which all wide-a-wake druggists have for sale at 25 cents.

There was an increase in fire losses during October this year, as compared with October, 1894, in the United States and Canada amounting to $5,224,800. In this particular October was a calamitous month, bringing up the aggregate of fire loss for the year to $109,689,400, as compared with $105,789,600 for the first ten months of 1894.

Harper's Magazine

Brigels, a new novel by William Black, written with all the author's well known charm of manner, will begin in the December Number, 1895, and continue until May. A new novel by George Du Maurier entitled The Martian, will also begin during the year. It is not too much to say that no novel has ever been awaited with such great expectation as the successor to Trilby. The Personal Recollections of Joan of Arc will continue and will relate the story of the failure and martyrdom of the Maid of Orleans. Other important fiction of the year will be a novelette by Mark Twain, under the title, Tom Sawyer, Detective; a humorous threepart tale called Two Mormons from Muddlety, by Langdon Elwyn Mitchell; and short stories by Octave Thanet, Richard Harding Davis, Mary E. Wilkins, Julian Ralph, Brander Matthews, Owen Wister, and other well-known writers.

Prof. Woodrow Wilson will contribute six papers on George Washington and his times, with illustrations by Howard Pyle. Poultney Bigelow's history of The German Struggle for Liberty, illustrated by R. Caton Woodville, will be continued through the winter. Two papers on St. Clair's defeat and Mad Anthony Wayne's victory, by Theodore Roosevelt, with graphic illustrations will be printed during the year.

A noteworthy feature of the MAGAZINE during 1896 will be a series of articles of Caspar W. Whitney, describing his trip of 2600 miles on snow-shoes and with dog-sledge trains into the unexplored Barren Grounds of British North America in pursuit of wood-bison and musk-oxen. Mr. Whitney's series will have the added interest of being illustrated from photographs taken by himself.

The Volumes of the MAGAZINE begin with the Numbers for June and December of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order.

Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.

A RABBIT HUNT.

They Were Smoked Out by the Aid of Torch-Bearing Crabs.

"A Gilbert is a good man to go hunting with. He knows a few little tricks that are valuable in replenishing the larder when all ordinary ways fail," said C. S. Beerbower to a group of sportsmen yesterday morning. "I went with him once and came pretty near starving to death. The only thing we had to eat was crabs. Now, crabs are good enough for a change, but they palt on your appetite when you are compelled to eat them as a steady diet. One night, while in my tent thinking of home, fireside, friends and conjuring up the menu of the Jacksonville free lunch counters, Gilbert came to my tent and said:

"What, weeping, old man? Don't weep. I didn't know you were that hungry. I have a last resort. It is sure to work, and we will have plenty of meat. I have a way of catching rabbits that will not fail. The secret was imparted to me by an old hunter on his death-bed. I promised never to use it unless in actual want. Come, we will try it."

"What kind of meat are you going for?" I asked.

"'Rabbits,' he answered. 'The rabbit, you know, shares the hole of the sand crab. Under this beach we tread on here are thousands of rabbits snugly sleeping in the homes of the sand crab.'

"'Yes,' said I, 'but you can't get them out,' and I almost wept with disappointment.

"The only answer he gave me was the whistling of a tune from an opera. Finally Gilbert spied a sand crab. He caught him just as the crab was about to vanish down his hole. He caught another and another. Finally he had bagged a dozen. I was too weak to help him.

"Then he sat down upon the beach and sawed a tallow candle into half-inch bits. He lighted a match, melted some of the tallow, on a crab's back, stuck the bit of candle in it, lighted the candle, and liberated the crab, which skedaddled for his hole, and into it he went. Mr. Gilbert spread a shrimp net over the hole. It got too hot down there for the rabbit, for we could smell fur scorching. The rabbit made a bolt for the open air, and he was our meat. Altogether we caught an even ten.

Woman's Hair and Curling Tongs.

The face of woman, it has been stated, "burned the topless towers of Ilium." The statement, however, is poetic, and the towers that were fired were, after all, only Ilium's affair. But the head, which means, of course, the hair of woman, it is now roundly declared, has very nearly fired one ship, and may, for aught we know, have fired a thousand. For it seems that when woman goes down to the sea in ships she is apt to secrete about her a potential conflagration in the shape of a spirit lamp. She wants this apparatus to heat the tongs with which she communicates those artless undulations to her hair that the ocean air does not agree with. So, in the privacy of her stateroom, she fills her lamp continuously with the contraband fusel strikes the careless match, and lights the irresponsible flame. Her things are disposed conveniently all around. The stateroom wabbles more or less—and something happens, not in Ilium, that is quite prosaic, and concerns us all. There doesn't seem any help for it, either. She needs must curl her hair. The only way to stop her that appears to have suggested itself to anybody is, that stewardesses should be straightway charged to confiscate her lamp. And what then? A stewardess, after all, is woman, too. Is it to be supposed that she doesn't curl her hair, or that she hasn't a curling apparatus of her own? We trow not.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Spared for a Purpose.

"I went up to Chickamauga with Judge B——," said Congressman Allen. "I walked about the field and heard hundreds of old fellows talking about the spots on which they had been wounded and telling all manner of marvelous stories. I was not at Chickamauga, but I was in other battles, and when a man tells you that he can return and pick out spots where all sorts of things occurred in a battle this many years afterward, you may put him down as a liar.

"Well, everybody up there was lying, and I had to do a little myself.

"I was standing by the railroad station at the foot of one of the hills when an old veteran accosted me and asked if I knew when the next train left for Rome.

"'No,' said I, 'this is the first time I have been here in thirty-two years, and, my friend, when I stand here and look upon this hill, recalling the charge I made up it through a shower of shot and shell, how I dashed my horse right through a Federal battery, leaping seven different cannons and emerging from a shower of bullets unscathed, I wonder that I am alive to-day.'

"As the old fellow listened to my story his eyes filled with tears. He walked up and, putting his arms around me, said:

"'Young man, you were spared for some great purpose.'"—Atlanta Constitution.

The Man Afraid of His Wife.

If there is a man on earth to be pitied, it is he who is afraid of his wife. There is something very sad, and at the same time a trifle ludicrous about such a case. To see man, who has always styled himself the master, meekly following the advice and obeying the dictum of one of the so-called "weaker sex" must do the hearts of some "new women" an infinite deal of good.

I doubt if a woman ever respects a man whom she can twist about her little finger or one of those men who are subservient to her every beck and call, and who acts afraid of her. Neither, on the other hand, do most women like the tyrannical description of spouses. A happy medium is the approved style, but it's very hard to find one of the sort. Men nowadays are either too meek and mild, or else too tyrannical to suit an up-to-date woman.—Philadelphia Times.

Town in Danger.

Between eleven and twelve o'clock Wednesday night of last week, fire was discovered in the barn of the Centralia Hotel, at Centralia, by Dr. Gwinner and Theo. F. Riley. There was a fierce gale blowing at the time and fears were entertained that the fire might communicate with the adjoining building and a dreadful conflagration result. The gentlemen who had made the discovery spread the alarm as quickly as possible and they set to work to conquer the flames which had gained some headway by this time. After quick work they succeeded in getting control and soon had the flames extinguished.

The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin and 'tis said there is a clue as to who the fire bugs were and arrests may follow.

FATAL FALL OF COAL.

A fall of coal occurred at Centralia colliery, last Friday afternoon, that crushed out the life of one Anthony Bauscabage, an intelligent miner, of that place. His death was almost instantaneous and he was horribly crushed. The body was taken in charge by friends, and interment will be made Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock in St. Ignatius' cemetery.

James J. Riley, a much respected citizen, of Centralia, received a serious and painful injury, on the same day, at Centralia colliery. He was caught in a fall of coal and had three of his ribs broken.—Ashland Local.

Budding time—the time when girlhood blossoms into womanhood—is a trying period in every woman's life. Much depends on the care and the treatment given then—a lifetime of healthy happiness, or years of suffering sickness.

To bring girls safely through this critical period, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been found an unfailing aid. It is a preparation of strongly tonic properties. It puts the whole body into good condition and is particularly efficacious in its action on the peculiarly feminine organism. There is no sort of female trouble that it will not correct if it is taken in time. Thousands of the worst possible cases have been cured by it. It works in a perfectly natural way, and drives out disease by building up the strength and purifying the whole system.

Many modest women and girls suffer unspeakable torments because they dread telling their troubles to a physician. They fear the almost inevitable examinations and "local treatment." These things are usually wholly unnecessary.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do what not one doctor in a hundred can do—it will cure. In our 168 page book entitled "Woman and Her Diseases," are hundreds of testimonials to its wonderful efficacy.

The book will be sent free in plain envelope on receipt of this notice with ten cents to part pay postage.

Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

My Dear Mr. Editor:—

The word "old" in the remorseless flight of time is to me now a stern reality, but I use the term rather in reference to those days now long past, the days before the war, when your beloved father was in the vigor of his manhood, when I was privileged to minister in Towanda to the congregation of the Episcopal Church which he attended. I also was young, and this was my first charge as Rector. And among the privileges of my life upon which I look back with intense satisfaction and interest, an interest which revolving years have intensified rather than diminished, is the circumstance that my lot was cast in Northern Pennsylvania to minister in Towanda to that loving and beloved congregation. I see before me now the forms of Elwell, Wilmot, Mercur, Adams, Baird and Ward as they occupied their seats in the old wooden building at the northern entrance of the town, and listened attentively to the preacher's words. There were others of strong, and marked personality. Overton, Patrick and several to whom allusion is made in the noble tribute to your father's memory in the paper which you sent me, whom I had the privilege of regarding as my personal friends.

Before the war the fires of political animosity raged fiercely and Towanda, from the single fact of its containing men of strong convictions and conspicuous ability, fed the flame, but the fires of controversy at least on the old lines are burnt out and the silence of the tomb broods over the sepulchres of the dead giants.

There is something however which does not die and which we willingly will not let die—it is the memory of the quiet virtues which made the names of Elwell and Mercur and others so dear to those who knew them.

There are a few things which go to make up rounded character of a noble Judge besides legal attainments, strict justice and keen discrimination; these are gentleness, kindness and goodness—"the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit which is in the sight of God of great price." These are things of which account will be taken at that bar before which we all must appear. These are the imperishable gifts which live on as a precious legacy to one's children, to district and to nation when the hand has lost its cunning. And these were the gifts and graces which filled out the noble, able, amiable character of Judge Elwell. They seem like the golden sheen of the setting sun at the close of day in Indian summer as it lights up the yellow corn and the ripened fruit.

I could write much more, but where the need? To the bar of the Judicial District over which he presided with so much dignity for more than a quarter of a century he has left an imperishable legacy. His colleagues know his worth and they have put on record their appreciation. His name will be entered upon the roll of those philanthropists who with Sydney Smith in England have succeeded in blotting out some of the terrible penalties for slight offenses which disgraced the penal code at the beginning of the century. The members of this great commonwealth should never forget his service to humanity in his single handed effort, and complete success to abolish imprisonment for debt. And in these days of strikes when labor and capital seem ever ready to plunge into an unnatural war, how invaluable the labors of such a Judge as Elwell in 1871, who knew no "respect of persons" apart from the simple merits of the case. And last but by no means least now that the summing up is filed in the Court of last Appeal, what a memory and what a motive he has left to his bereaved family, to surrowing friends, to that dear congregation among whom he worshipped, to his own church, to Christians of every name, to those who are strangers and aliens to the love of Christ, to the community generally, to one and all, to follow him as he followed his Lord.

Phila. Nov. 22, 1895.

Former Pastor Christ Church Towanda

Want Night Police.

Centralia Borough Council is considering the advisability of employing night police. A petition praying for the same has been presented to the Council and the probability is there will be one or more appointed.

Shot a Gray Fox.

James H. Mercer, is not only a sure shot with his gun, but a prophet as well. Last Saturday morning in company with William Bodine he went fox hunting on the river hill, and when he started he told his friends he would bring home a gray fox. They didn't believe him but about four o'clock in the afternoon he came into town with Reynard over his shoulder. It was a fine specimen, and gave the hunters a fine chase.

Leased the Canal.

A rumor is current that the Pennsylvania Railroad company has leased the Tidewater canal. The canal, it is said, will be operated next summer.

Dr. T. C. Harter has had gas put into his residence on East Street.

A delegation of Odd Fellows from Van Camp lodge of this place visited the Espy lodge last Saturday evening. They were royally entertained.

The building operations of Thomas Lauer on Main, near Railroad Street, are progressing rapidly. It will not be long before they will be ready for occupancy.

BURGLARS AT WORK.

For several weeks past a gang of thieves have been operating in the adjoining towns and last Saturday night several houses in this place were visited by these nocturnal visitors, and although they did not succeed in carrying away a great amount of property, they did succeed in throwing the town into consternation. The operations were commenced Saturday night and continued all through the night and only ceased then because of the dawning of the day. The houses entered included those of M. E. Wagenhurst, W. H. Slate, L. E. Waller, C W. Miller, Thos. Vannatta Mrs. I. S. Kuhn, Dr. M. J. Hess, Dr. F. W. Redeker, G. W. Keiter, Thos. Wayne, Jos. Sharpless.

In every instance the entrance was effected by forcing open windows on the first floor, and the entire lower part of the house was thoroughly searched. In no case excepting at the residence of M. E. Wagenhurst, did they go on the second floor. At this place, after lighting the parlor lamp they went up stairs and secured a pocketbook but fortunately for the owners and unfortunate for them it was empty. They also ate a lot of oysters that Mrs. Wagenhurst had intended for their Sunday dinner. At L. E. Waller's, after eating what they had partly prepared for their breakfast they left, after securing a pair of Opera glasses. Their search through the residence of W. H. Slate failed to afford them anything they apparently desired, and the residence of C. W. Miller disclosed the same state of affairs, having been there, but taking nothing with them. They entered the residence of Dr. Hess on Fifth Street in the same manner, but Sam Hess who had just returned from "some where" heard them, gave the alarm and they left without taking anything.

Dr. Redeker mourns the loss of an overcoat, and several small articles. It was at Mrs. Kuhn's however where they made the best haul, securing a silver cake dish, spoons and other articles of silver ware, which were however subsequently found in Mr. Wayne's barn on West Main Street.

It is supposed that daylight over took them and they used the first place they came to in which to store the stolen goods. At Thomas Vannatta's on Iron Street they stole two razors. At the residence of Geo. W. Keiter they secured silver knives, forks and spoons and were heard by the hired girl who thinking she had over slept herself came down stairs but found no one in the house. The house of Joseph Sharpless was entered between six and seven o'clock Sunday morning and two pairs of spectacles taken. This ended the marauding. The crime evidently was not committed by professionals, but by tramps or sneak thieves. Several parties who saw whom they allege was the burglar say, that it was only one man who did the plundering. Our readers would do well to look to the fastenings of their windows and doors.

The Baker Ballot Law Violated.
